

Rebar Prices Increase (again)

Steel mills increased rebar prices last night for the second time in the last 45 days. The change is due in part to scrap metal increases and the effects from the flooding in Australia that have severely impacted steel mill feedstock prices (coal/coke). Sounds crazy, but the price of rebar in the US is influenced by such events half-way around the world!

This means you can expect to see prices ripple through the industry in the coming weeks and months. Please call us for the most current prices and projected increases when you are estimating upcoming jobs.

CCA is stocked with lower priced rebar today and has a careful eye on any further increases. We will make every attempt to hold current prices for as long as possible. Remember, we only stock USA-made, Grade 60 steel rebar, direct from the mill.

Please call us if you have any questions. We will keep you informed of any more changes as we learn them.

Thank you for your continued business and best wishes for 2011.

Tom Halberg, President
Colorado Concrete Accessories
970-242-4651

Click  to edit

Double-click to insert an image

Right-click to
format image

100 x 100 pixels